The Network of Care is part of a growing awareness and effort to take a whole community approach to the needs of returning veterans, to ensure that they are a valuable part of a healthy community and that the community is a meaningful part of the health of the veteran.

This public service is an attempt to bring together critical information for all components of the veterans' community, including veterans, active-duty personnel, reservists, members of the National Guard, family members, employers, service providers, and the community at large.

The Network of Care for Veterans & Service Members is a one-stop shop for virtually all services, information, support, advocacy, and much more. This commercial-free, publicly sponsored service tool grew out of the award-winning Network of Care for Behavioral Health – recommended by the President's New Freedom Commission on Mental Health – and was first developed as a national model in Maryland and California.

The many partners in this project include:

- The National Association of State Mental Health Program Directors
- The National Association of County Behavioral Health and Developmental Disability Directors
- The National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI)
- Mental Health America
- A wide variety of military and veterans' leaders and organizations around the country.

A Reference Guide to Your Network of Care Web Site

Service Directory

There's often confusion and uncertainty about the most appropriate and desirable way to get assistance. For veterans, active-duty personnel, reservists, and members of our National Guard, the right service can be elusive and hard to find. For the first time, the Network of Care brings all federal, state, and local services to one place, with an easy-to-use search engine.

Library

The Network of Care offers the highest-quality information sources in the world. Our Library contains more than 4,000 health topics and 35,000 articles, including straightforward explanations and guidance on combat-related stress, traumatic brain injury (TBI), depression, and substance-abuse issues. You'll also find helpful, fresh information on health conditions, medications, medical tests and procedures, and everyday health and wellness issues.

Social Networking

The Network of Care has one of the most advanced and easy-to-use social networking platforms in the nation. Users can easily create their own blogs, post their stories and even send them, if they wish, to their elected representatives. People can form groups and communities-of-interest, either public or private, such as those for veterans, spouses and parents of the deployed, those experiencing similar injuries, and so forth.

Personal Health Record

Create a private, secure file of information for yourself or someone you care about. Organize and store important medical and health-related information in one convenient location and access it anywhere, via a secure Internet connection. If you choose, grant selected access to a relative, trusted doctor, or friend.

For Providers

Service providers and organizations can create their own Web sites for free and post events on our easy-to-use event calendar.

Legislate

Use our amazing bill-tracking section to follow state and federal legislation, communicate directly with lawmakers, and receive email alerts about important proposed legislation and funding for issues critical to veterans. Finally – a simple and easy way to make our voices heard.

Assistive Devices

No matter what kind of assistive device you need, look here first. We constantly update our database of more than 21,000 tools and devices – every assistive device made in North America – which you can sort by function, company or brand.

Links

The hunt is over – we've rounded up every government and nonprofit Web site in the nation specializing in veterans' issues and the concerns of active-duty personnel, and organized it by national, state, and local resource. Just click, and you're there.

Nationwide News

Current headlines affect you. Every day, we bring you the top state and national news about veterans' issues, public policy, and more.
